ACKNOWLEDGMENTS

I would like to thank Alex Zwerdling, John Bishop, and Robert Alter for offering valuable comments on various versions of the manuscript. I also want to thank Virginia Hyde for her valuable comments on the penultimate version. Moreover, I greatly appreciate the enthusiastic support of the D. H. Lawrence Society of North America, who awarded me their New Scholar Award 2000–2001 for three articles based on material from this book. The award encouraged me to complete the book. Special thanks to Jack Stewart, Carol Siegel, and Earl Ingersoll for their appreciation of my scholarship.

I would also like to thank my dear family and friends. It was ultimately their continuing love, support, and encouragement that made this book possible!

Finally, I am grateful to the journals Studies in the Novel, Style, and Mosaic for their reprint permissions and for their support of my work. An earlier version of chapter 1 appeared as “Mortifying the Reader: The Assault on Verbal and Visual Consciousness in D. H. Lawrence’s Lady Chatterley’s Lover” in Studies in the Novel 29.4 (Winter 1997) 491–511. An earlier version of chapter 2 appeared as “Revitalizing the Reader: Literary Technique and the Language of Sacred Experience in D. H. Lawrence’s Lady Chatterley’s Lover” in Style 32.1 (Spring 1998) 102–26. An earlier version of chapter 3 appeared as “The Religious Initiation of the Reader in D. H. Lawrence’s The Rainbow” in Mosaic 33.3 (September 2000) 165–82.
